Littlejohn returns and performs with four wins

Hazel Littlejohn is back with a vengeance.

The Darfield stalwart missed the 2025 Devon Hotel Taranaki women's Open fours and has made up for it this time by skipping her side to four-successive wins during the first two days of the 2026 competition.

Littlejohn's side of Liz Hamilton, Annie Simpson and Diane Currie — who bettered the efforts of her husband, Bruce, in last week's men's Open — scored two fine wins on the Paritutu back green yesterday to be among the 11 early qualifiers.

The Canterbury crew beat Marlene Foster (Wanganui East) 26-13 and Lynn Clifford (Mercury Bay) 29-19.

Against Foster, Littlejohn raced ahead 16-1 after eight ends. The closest Foster got was 20-12 behind after 16, before Littlejohn, pictured, moved away again.

The afternoon

score against Clifford was inflated late in the match. A brace of fours mid-game took Littlejohn from 11-8 down to 19-12 in front.

But the Thames Valley quartet rallied, closing to 21-19 behind with three to play. Littlejohn, though, settled the issued with counts of 3-1-4.

Littlejohn is the current President of Deaf Lawn Bowls New Zealand. She competed at the 2023 world deaf championships in Scotland, winning gold in the singles and silver in the pairs.

Illustrating the quality of the performance of her side so far this week, three of their opponents so far have recorded three wins — Chris Telford (Napier), Foster and Clifford — while the other five sides on the same side of the draw in section seven as Littlejohn are already out of contention.

Littlejohn's Canterbury cohort Tracy Fickling (Allenton) is also among the qualifiers after two more comfortable wins. There are six other visitors through: Wendy Green (Ngongotaha), Tia Moka (Homai), Estelle Hickey (Carlton Cornwall), Robyn Fisher (Royal Oak), Diane Strawbridge (Kensington) and Sheryl Wellington (Mairangi Bay). The three Taranaki qualifiers to date are Elaine Hodge (New Plymouth), Trish Howard (West End) and Cindy Nicoll (Inglewood).

There are a host of other teams lurking nearby. Twenty-six have won three games and 12 are on two wins. It means that 33 are already eliminated, some of who will take the second bite of the cherry in the Marbles Restaurant pairs, which starts tomorrow.

Green has received a work-out in section play. That occurred again in the fourth round yesterday against Petone Central's Sandy Booth, a past Wellington open pairs winner.

Green took the match 23-16. Green led 14-7 before Booth closed to 16-15 behind after 17 ends. However, Green won seven singles thereafter to take the match.

Moka joined Green as the first of the qualifiers from section two when her well-balanced side defeated Te Kuiti's Pania Reed 29-15, having beaten three-winner Ange Debique (Stratford-Avon) 27-17 after finishing strongly.

One of the outstanding finishes of the day came in the morning at Waitara when Hodge squeaked past Marlene Alberino-Kay (Island Bay) 25-24. Hodge had looked powerful early, leading 13-2 after seven ends, before the Wellingtonians clawed back into it.

The scores were even playing the last end, and the shot changed four times there before Hodge got the nod. Hodge rounded out the day by eliminating Gayle Melrose (Tauranga) 28-17.

Alberino-Kay kept her best hopes alive, beating Pania Roberts (Opononi) 27-24, but the fourth win today won't come easy. Both their opponents, Howard and Fickling, have already attained their qualification.

Melrose wasn't alone in exiting, with some other well-known names also incurring loss No 3, including Dianne Patterson (Gonville-Castlecliff, Anne Lomas (Far North RSA) and Cathy Andrews (Paritutu).

The majority of the three winners should qualify. Included in that group is defending titleholder Marilyn Constantine (Tauranga), her loss coming 28-16 to former Whanganui representative teammate, Patterson. But Constantine replied in kind after lunch.

Her side stopped the unbeaten run of Rhonda Adams (Fitzroy) 27-20.

Maree Gadsby (Fitzroy) raised two wins to sit comfortably on three. That included a commanding 29-14 victory over Rachelle Morrison (Omokoroa) in the morning. Morrison won well in the afternoon to also sit on three.

Heather Johns (Paritutu) is also in that category. After a win and a loss on Tuesday, Johns certainly didn't want to drop her round three match against Kathy Dempster-Rivett (Whakatane). But it was heading that way at the commencement of the last head, the BOP side leading 20-18. Johns, though, with a drawn five, took the match 23-20.

Dempster-Rivett put the disappointment to one side in securing a third win in the afternoon.

Both Southland teams in the field, Sharon Siegruhn (Northend) and Marilyn Fletcher (Lumsden), finished the day with three wins as well.

Three teams performed the perfect reversal and after two losses on Tuesday won twice yesterday. They were Fay Jones (North End), Karen de Jongh (Hinuera) and Brenda Rowe (Waitara).
